Labor and Employment

Stefan has more than 5 years' experience working with various clients (expats) and/or companies from various industries and/or business units (entertainment, education and real estate), resolving issues such as visas, temporary and permanent residencies, naturalizations, obtaining proof of employer registration, and notifications.

His vision and mission in relation to immigration law is to provide fast and effective legal solutions for our clients, responding to their needs in an integral manner. The work of an immigration lawyer does not end once the expat enters our country, but rather the fulfillment of obligations is triggered in parallel, and it is our duty to channel and fulfill them hand in hand with our clients to achieve joint goals and objectives.

Experience

Stefan Jiménez is an associate in the Labor and Employment practice. He has successfully handled various matters relating to social security and immigration, achieving favorable results for his clients. His most notable achievements include securing a favorable ruling for a foreign client enabling him to obtain a refund of social security contributions, setting an important precedent so that other foreigners can claim for refunds of their contributions.

He also obtained protection from the federal courts against the INM (National Immigration Institute), getting the Institute to reopen the window for incomplete procedures, a significant step forward for administrative processes in this area.

He has obtained numerous favorable rulings in immigration procedures, achieving the objectives set by his clients and ensuring the regularization of their situation in the country. He also successfully assisted a Venezuelan citizen in being recognized as a refugee by the COMAR (Mexican Refugee Assistance Commission), which enabled him to obtain permanent residency in Mexico.

Stefan speaks Spanish and English fluently.
