Andrés Ordóñez is a partner with the Corporate/Commercial Department at Garrigues' Colombia office, where he specializes in mergers & acquisitions. Andrés is licensed to practice law in the State of New York and Colombia. His practice is focused on cross-border acquisitions representing primarily multinational corporations and private equity funds in acquiring assets based in Latin America and Colombian companies in acquiring companies abroad. In addition, Andrés has significant experience in debt securities offerings in international markets and in cross-border and syndicated financing transactions.

Andrés is a lawyer with a Law Degree from Pontificia Universidad Javeriana and holds an LL.M. in Securities and Financial Regulation (with honors) from Georgetown University and a postgraduate degree in Business Law from Universidad de los Andes. He has been recognized as an expert in M&A by Chambers & Partners Latin-America, Chambers & Partners Global, Legal 500, IFLR1000 and Transactional Track Record.

Experience

Andrés Ordóñez has been a member of Garrigues since 2017. Before joining Garrigues he practiced as a senior associate at the New York office of Willkie Farr & Gallagher LLP. He also did a stint at a leading Colombian firm, the Washington D.C. office of Arnold & Porter LLP and, before that, as in-house counsel of a prominent Colombian investment bank.

Andrés has worked on numerous cross-border corporate transactions in a broad range of industries, including financial services, private equity, insurance, infrastructure, healthcare, telecommunications, pharmaceuticals, technology, energy, and logistics, among others.
