Experience

Juan Antonio López de Carvajal has been a counsel of the Labor and Employment Law practice of Garrigues since 2019. He has spent his entire professional career at the firm since joining in 2001.

He specializes in labor and employment law and, in particular, on strategic aspects of labor law and human resource management.

He has broad experience in advising on strategic labor matters and on labor restructuring and reorganization processes, advising both in the strategy and preparation phase and in negotiations with unions and workers' representatives until the relevant projects have been implemented. He has been involved in labor aspects of corporate restructuring processes, outsourcing, mergers and acquisitions and processes to standardize working conditions, preparing reports and providing labor law advice on the planning of such processes and the strategy to be followed as regards procedures, time frame and communication, as well as directly assisting with the execution of such processes, including negotiations with union representatives, where necessary.

He has participated in numerous projects over his professional career at Garrigues and is currently an expert legal adviser on compensation systems, remuneration and employee benefits, employee welfare, collective bargaining and social security matters, as well as on senior management and executive contracts. He has advised private Spanish and multinational companies from all sectors of activity (industry, services, technology, third sector, etc.) on these matters.
