Experience

Eduardo Abad is the partner in charge of the Tax Law Department at Garrigues, the firm where he has developed his professional career. He specialises in the areas of taxation for banking, insurance and other financial entities, as well as energy companies and service sector entities (private security, consulting, legal advice, etc.). His experience has enabled him to participate in numerous M&A transactions, real estate investments and private equity. He is an expert in the tax aspects related to capital markets and financial products, and is a leading lawyer for the main Spanish and foreign financial institutions operating in these markets.

He is a specialist in debt and preference share issuance transactions carried out by national and international issuers.

He participates, together with the Tax Litigation group, in the legal management of numerous proceedings before the economic-administrative courts and the courts of justice, including the Supreme Court and the Constitutional Court, as well as some of the most relevant State aid proceedings in tax matters brought by the European Commission and before the EU Courts of Justice (GUEB and CJEU).

He also collaborates on a regular basis in legal-tax matters with the main Spanish and foreign private banking entities, advising them and their clients in the main areas of family business.

He is an expert in Accounting/Financial Reporting Law and member of the Financial Instruments Experts Forum of the Spanish private Association of Accounting and Business Administration (AECA).

He has also collaborated with the CEOE on tax matters through its Tax Committee. He is also a regular speaker at seminars and conferences of the firm and various specialised centres (IEB, Instituto de Fomento Empresarial, etc.) and foundations and associations (Fundación de Impuestos y Competitividad, Asociación Española de Leasing y Renting, Asociación Española de Factoring, etc.).

He has been the partner in charge of the firm's Innovation and Digitalisation Committee since 2021.
