Dispute Resolution: Litigation and Arbitration

Alejandro Huertas is a partner in the Dispute Resolution: Litigation and Arbitration department at Garrigues, where he has developed his career since 2008, specialising in the analysis and resolution of commercial disputes, either in the context of complex negotiations or, when settlement is not an option, in the defence of the case, both in court and in arbitration.

He is regularly involved in some of the most complex and significant financial cases in the country, often with a high technical and international component. His expertise covers a wide range of sectors (private equity, energy, industry, construction, insurance, pharmaceuticals and telecommunications) and issues (SHAs, SPAs, earn-outs, R&W, damages, accounting disputes, corporate disputes, contractual and non-contractual liability and unfair competition). A three-time Spanish Public Speaking Champion, Alejandro teaches courses on communication and negotiation techniques and is recognised by the main international legal directories as one of the leading litigators in our country.

Experience

Alejandro regularly participates in the definition and implementation of the legal strategy of some of the most complex business disputes with the greatest financial impact in Spain, defending the interests of our clients in any private dispute.

In particular, he has extensive experience in complex negotiations, where on many occasions he has quickly reached satisfactory agreements. He has conducted significant litigation and arbitration proceedings, both national (CAM, CIMA) and international (ICC, PCA), under various applicable laws. He specialises in highly technical financial and accounting disputes (business valuations, exit prices, earn-outs and damages calculations), which he approaches from both a legal and technical perspective.

Alejandro has successfully defended hundreds of litigation and arbitration cases, including the following examples:

- Representing a gas company in an ad hoc arbitration concerning the acquisition and valuation of an LNG plant.
- Representing a listed pharmaceutical company in a challenge to an international double-blind clinical trial.
- Acting for a private equity fund in a dispute over the earn-out on the transfer of a telecommunications company.

- Representing a family office in price adjustment claims for breach of R&W following the sale of several factories and patents in Spain to an international pharmaceutical group.
